2. set out procedures to reduce the risk of insider trading.

A basic explanation on insider trading is provided together with the steps taken by the Company to prevent the practice, including:

1. a description of what conduct may constitute insider trading.
2. the windows when Directors, employees and contractors are permitted to buy or sell securities in order to minimise the risk of insider trading.

procures someone else to buy or sell securities in the company; or

2. Examples

Price sensitive information means information relating to the Company that would, if the information were publicly known, be likely to:

have a material effect on the price or value of the Company's shares;

influence persons who invest in securities in deciding whether or not to buy or sell the company's shares.

The following are examples of price sensitive information which, if made available to the market, would be likely to affect the price of the Company's securities:

the Company is considering the acquisition of another company;

product testing results confirming (or falling short of) the market's expectations.

3. Dealing through Third Parties

A person does not need to be a Director, employee of Company to be guilty of insider trading in relation to securities in the Company. The prohibition extends to dealings by anyone, including Directors' and employees' nominees, agents or other associates, such as family members, family trusts and family companies, as well as customers and suppliers.

4. Contractors and External Advisors

Contractors employed by the Company shall be informed of this policy when they are appointed and are required to adhere to the policy so long as they are contracted by the Company. Breach of the policy may lead to termination of contract arrangements.

The Company's staffs dealing with external advisers needs to ensure that the advisers are aware of the insider trading rules and where these dealings cover material matters, that the issue of insider trading is covered in confidentiality documents.

5. Meaning of Securities

The rules covers shares in the Company, derivatives related to the Company's shares, whether issued by the company or not and to any traded company options. It also applies to the exercise of options, including employee options.

6. Related Companies

Guidelines for Trading in the Company's Securities

1. Approval Process

1. Directors, employees and contractors can deal in securities of the Company in the following circumstances:
 1. they have satisfied themselves that they are not in possession of any price sensitive information that is not generally available to the public;
 2. they have contacted the Chairman or in his absence, the Managing Director and notified them of their intention to do so and the Chairman or Managing Director indicates that there is no impediment to them doing so.
2. Where the Chairman wishes to deal with his securities, he has contacted the Managing Director, or in his absence, the Company Secretary and notified them of their intention to do so and the Managing Director or Company Secretary indicates that there is no impediment to them doing so.
3. The Chairman will generally not allow directors, employees and contractors to deal in securities of the Company as a matter of course in the following periods:
 1. within the period of 14 days prior to the release of annual, half yearly or quarterly results;
 2. within the period of 14 days prior to the Annual General Meeting; and
 3. if there is in existence price sensitive information that has not been disclosed because of an ASX Listing Rule exception.
4. Directors and executives are also excluded from dealing in securities within the period from receipt of the Board Pack and the Directors' Meeting.
5. Directors, employees and contractors should wait at least 2 days after the relevant release before dealing in securities so that the market has had time to absorb the information.
6. This notification obligation operates at all times and applies to dealings in the Company's securities by family members and other associates of Directors, employees and contractors as well as to personal dealings by Directors and employees. It does not apply to any issue of securities by the Company pursuant to a prospectus or like disclosure under the Corporations Act 2001 (Cth) (Corporations Act), or under employee share and option plans.

2. Hedging unvested entitlements

- ✧ Entitlements under the Company's equity based incentive plans (if any) are subject to the satisfaction of various time and/or performance hurdles to ensure alignment of employee rewards with the Company's objectives and performance. Transactions which "hedge" the value of entitlements could distort the proper functioning of these hurdles and reduce the intended alignment with shareholder interests.
- ✧ Directors, and executives participating in an equity-based executive incentive plan, are prohibited from entering into any transaction which would have the effect of hedging or otherwise transferring to any other person the risk of any fluctuation in the value of any unvested entitlement in the Company's securities.
 1. Notwithstanding the restriction imposed by paragraph (b) above, Directors may enter into hedging transactions in respect of the Company securities held by them outside any equity based performance plan or once the securities have been vested.
